B - Objectifs de la formation(compétences visées, connaissances pédagogiques acquises à l'issue de la formation- maximum 20 lignes)

1. Knowledge

At term of this Master program of study, students will be able to:

Distinguish and describe important historical and literary periods relating to the United Kingdom and the United States and recognize the various actors who shaped the character of both countries; describe events and developments in Anglo-American history and literature in terms of causation, continuity, change; Understand different interpretations and debates in history and literature; Recognize the importance of sources(primary and secondary)in the production of historical and literary writings.

2. Skills

Students will be able to:

Recall facts and produce coherent historical and literary writings;think critically and produce rational oral arguments in the context of a class discussion; identify relevant literatures in specific fields and distinguish a good scholarship from poor one; respect ethical practices and observe scientific objectivity through regular written assignments of varying lengths.

Ultimately, the student should be able to formulate his/her own Master Mémoire and conduct research in a scholarly manner as this program represents a crucial step which opens upon doctoral research.

C – Profils et compétences métiers visés(en matière d’insertion professionnelle - maximum 20 lignes) :

This Master program seeks to further and deepen students' knowledge of Anglo-American histories and literatures.

History and literature are closely interrelated. Literature is the product of its times, i.e. :its context is always to some extent historical. But history too is literature, otherwise how may one classify Booker T. Washington's Up from Slavery: An Autobiography(1901)or Tony Blair's A Journey: My Political Life(2010)?The purpose of this project ,therefore, is to present history and literature as a tandem. But why should one engage in such an educational program?

Although English as a language forms a significant part of this Master, its historical context looms high. In a global age where western values of political democracy and economic liberalism are sweeping the world, it is imperative for our students to get relevant knowledge about western societies, particularly the USA and the UK, so as to understand today's prevailing patterns and be able to approach them critically and analytically.

Acquiring English is necessary in our webbed environment but understanding the cultures lying behind it is even more so. Cultural studies provide our students with a cultural dimension needed in language acquisition; this will enable them to develop better understanding of the world around them. But this cannot be acquired without training students in appropriate methods and skills. Theoretical and methodological tools are hence introduced to enhance the students' ability to interact with other societal patterns that are alien to them.

All this is accompanied by the module of Teaching English as a Foreign Language which gives an opportunity to students of such specialty to develop a set of skills needed for the activity of foreign language teaching as well as modules which aim at making better citizens and professionals in the areas of legislation, communication competences, and work ethics.

D- Potentialités régionales et nationales d’employabilité

Employability of the graduates of this Master is possible both at a regional as well as anational level. The market of employment is large enough to absorb them:

First, at a regional level, employment opportunities are offeredat the various levels of national education. Although the urban areas seem to be fully provided forwith English teachers, the remote rural are still in need for our university graduates.

Second, local economic actors, mainly those in the import-export trade, seem to favor graduates from our department;either for handling information on the web or accompanying them on their business trip abroad. Already ,anumber of Licence-Degree holders are employed as such.

Last, the Master graduates have a predilection for post-graduate studies. Enrolling in a Master's degree qualifies for access to doctoral studies, hence the possibility of recruitment at a university level. At this level, there is a terrible lack of a qualified teaching staff. Our future Master graduates will certainly help as student-teacherswhile working on their doctoral dissertation.

Objectifs de l'enseignement:

This course seeks to introduce students to some of the most important schools of literary theory and criticism in the 20th Century that have had significant impact on the study of literature. In each unit, we explore the philosophical framework informing the school in question as well as its central tenets and main interpretative strategies. We look in particular for each school's definition of the nature of the relationship between text and reality, the nature of the relationship between the text and its author (the question of authorship)..

Connaissances préalables recommandées:

Enable students to grasp some theoretical concepts in literature

Explain to students how to apply theoretical perspectives to literary works

Reveal to students the relationships among theories – their differences, similarities, strengths, and weaknesses – by applying them all to literary works.

Contenu de la matière:

- An Overview of Literary Theory and Criticism
- Elements of literary Criticism
- Major Categories and Approaches:
 - A) Mimetic Theory: Platonic principle and Aristotelian Theory of Literature
 - B) Pragmatic Theory: Horace and Philip Sydney Theory of Literature
 - C) Expressive: The Literary Theory of William Wordsworth
 - D) Objective Theory: The Literary Theory of T. S. Eliot
- Literature and history
- Reading, writing and reception
