

Dear colleagues,

I hope you are all doing well.

Upon the request of some teachers, the Practice Workshop: Live Discipline-Based Lesson Demonstrations, of Tuesday, December 16th, has been postponed to Tuesday February 3rd from 9:00 to 12:00 at the CEIL.

For this session, each participant is invited to prepare a short lesson from their own discipline and deliver it in front of their colleagues. The aim is to give everyone the opportunity to apply what you learnt in a real teaching situation, receive constructive feedback, and exchange practical ideas that can support future classroom implementation.

You are free to choose any topic that represents your field and that you feel comfortable presenting. To make the most of the session, it may help to consider the following points as you prepare your lesson:

- Anticipate possible language challenges for students and plan simple strategies to address them
- Keep the presentation concise so that all participants have time to share their work

To help us finalize the program, please fill in the short questionnaire below to confirm your attendance.

With our best regards,

Prof. Dr. L. Belabdelouahab-Fernini
